

DIED IN REFORMED CHURCH

WHILE TEACHING HIS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS.

D. Jerome Swartz Expires After Saying It Was His Last Time at Teaching.

D. Jerome Swartz's death while teaching a lesson to a class in the Reformed Sunday School last Sunday morning startled the town. It was altogether unexpected. He had been in his usual health. He was teaching a class of ladies and after starting on the lesson hesitated in a somewhat confused way and said he was ahead of his story. Almost immediately he fell back in his chair. When members of class hurried to him and his head was raised he said: "This will be my last time at teaching," and expired. He passed away at the work nearest his heart. For years he had shown an interest in the Sunday School that never diminished. He had been Assistant Superintendent and head of the teacher training department of the school and anything that concerned the welfare of the school had his enthusiastic support.

Mr. Swartz was born at Scotland, Franklin county, but lived almost his entire life in this county and was aged 62 years, 10 months and 8 days. He was a son of Henry and Elizabeth Stouffer Swartz, the family moving here when he was a child. He gave the greater part of his life to the grocery business, first as a clerk, then conducting the well-known store on top of Baltimore Hill, having perhaps the largest country trade in its most prosperous days. Later he conducted a grocery store on Chambersburg street and quite recently he was helping Leo H. Miller in latter's Chambersburg Street Store. He had many warm friends in this place and throughout the county, enjoying their highest esteem. He was twice married, his first wife having been Miss Clara Rebert of Gettysburg. Some years after her death he married Mrs. Dora Winebrenner Chapman of Gettysburg, who survives together with three children of his first marriage, Miss Annie Swartz of Reading, Miss Cora Swartz of Camden, and Norman Swartz of Gettysburg. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Jonas Shank of Waynesboro. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, being conducted by Dr. T. J. Barkley with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Harriet Spangler, widow of the late Daniel Spangler, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Bupp in this place on last Sunday, aged 87 years and 18 days. She was a daughter of the late George and Hester Plank of Cumberland township and had lived her entire life in this county. Her husband died 21 years ago. The funeral was held on Wednesday, services being conducted by Rev. W. R. Glen, interment at Salem United Brethren Church of which she was a member. She leaves two sons and four daughters as follows: Mrs. W. J. Swope, Mrs. Ellen Bupp, and Geo. E. Spangler of Gettysburg; Mrs. J. F. Little of Harrisburg; J. A. Spangler of Des Moines, Ia., and Mrs. Laura Eicholtz of Philadelphia. One brother and one sister survive, George Plank of Arcadia, Pa., and Mrs. Emanuel Treistie of Highland township.

William K. Weikert, former commissioner of Adams county, died on Wednesday at his home in Mt. Pleasant township from uraemia, aged 49 years. He had been subject to attacks of uraemia and had an attack on Tuesday evening, sinking gradually until death ensued. Mr. Weikert was born in Mt. Pleasant township at son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Amos Weikert. He began farming in that township in 1893 and was successful. He also engaged in stock raising and superintended the conduct of his threshing outfit through the lower end of the county. He was a director in the Littlestown Fire Insurance Company and was also on the board of directors of the Littlestown Savings Institution. He was a Republican politically and was elected a county commissioner in 1908. In 1912 he was married to Miss Emma J. Sheely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheely of Mt. Pleasant township. She survives together with one daughter, Miss Ada Weikert, at home. He also leaves his mother, two brothers and a sister, Harvey K. Weikert, Charles M. Weikert, and Mrs. Lottie K. Ruffell, all of Mt. Pleasant township. The funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. on Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Lottie K. Ruffell, all of Mt. Pleasant township. The funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. on Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Lottie K. Ruffell, all of Mt. Pleasant township.

Miss Eliza Freeman died at the Lutheran Home in Washington, D. C., at an advanced age, being about ninety-three years of age. She was a former resident of Gettysburg, having made her home with her brother for many years and after his death in 1904 she went to the Lutheran Home. The funeral was held on Tuesday, Rev. J. B. Baker conducting the services and interment being made in the Evergreen Cemetery. The body was accompanied here by her niece, Miss Bertha Freeman of Philadelphia.

Miss Hettie M. Storm of Philadelphia died at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. W. Leese, in Hanover, on Sunday aged 26 years, 8 months and 28 days. Death was due to tuberculosis. Miss Storm was a daughter of Lewis G. Storm of McSherrystown. She was a graduate of St. Mary's parochial schools, after which she took a course in the York School of Business, from which she was graduated in 1913. A short time later Miss Storm accepted a position in the office of the Traymore Tailoring Company, Philadelphia, where she remained until ill health compelled her to resign. She came to the home of her sister, Mrs. Leese, three weeks ago, hoping to regain her health, but she grew gradually worse until death ensued. Besides her father she leaves three sisters, Mrs. C. W. Leese, Mrs. L. H. Miller of Gettysburg, Miss Irene Storm of McSherrystown, and one brother, Horace Storm of McSherrystown. She was a faithful member of St. Mary's Church, McSherrystown. The funeral was held Wednesday from St. Mary's Catholic Church with a requiem high mass by Rev. L. Augustus Reudter, interment in the family lot in Conewago Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Sterner, widow of David Sterner, died in Hanover on Sunday in her 73rd year. She was a native of Carroll county, Md., her maiden name being Miss Mary E. Frock. Her husband died two years ago. She leaves three daughters and two sons, one of the former being Mrs. Charles Wagner of New Oxford.

William Kuhn, aged 50 years, for a number of years residing at Philadelphia, recently living with his father, W. F. Kuhn, East Berlin, died at the latter's home last Sunday. Death was due to an extended illness. He is survived by his father and the following brothers and sisters: Walter Kuhn, living near East Berlin; Mrs. W. W. Reiser and Mrs. Daisy Reiser of East Berlin, and Mrs. Lewis Spangler of York. The funeral services were conducted on Wednesday by Rev. F. C. Sternat of Abbotstown, interment in the East Berlin Cemetery.

Phineas B. Miller, a native of Winchester, Va., died at Diller, Neb., on May 2, in his 61st year. His parents moved to this State when he was a child and in 1884 he moved to Diller. He married Mary Clark and 15 children were born to them, eight surviving. He was a brother of Mrs. W. F. Strank of New Chester and Mrs. Mary Hall and G. W. Miller of York Springs.

Mrs. Anna Grier Simonton, widow of Rev. Dr. William Simonton, for many years pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Emmitsburg, died last Thursday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Elisha A. Hancock, in Philadelphia, after a protracted illness. She leaves one son, Dr. Thomas Grier Simonton, of Pittsburgh, and four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Buffington, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. James B. Neal of Tsinan, China; Mrs. Hancock and Miss Martha S. Simonton of Philadelphia.

Francis A. Brady died at the home of his father A. F. Brady near Lilly's Mill, Oxford township, Adams Co., last Thursday, May 18, aged 30 years, 8 months and 17 days. He is survived by his father and one sister, Miss Katie Brady at home. Funeral was on Monday, May 22, requiem high mass in Conewago Chapel by Rev. Charles Koch, interment in Conewago Chapel Cemetery.

Peter Himes, a well known farmer residing near Bigmouth, York county, died last Saturday aged 67 years, 8 months and 6 days. He leaves two sons, Irvin and Rolando of East Berlin, and one daughter, Ida, at home. Funeral was on Tuesday at the Altland Meeting House, interment in the cemetery adjoining.

Mrs. Anna Mary Harboldt Reynolds, wife of Daniel S. Reynolds, a highly respected citizen of this place died on Thursday aged 64 years and 12 days. She was a native of York county, where her early life was spent. After her marriage to Daniel S. Reynolds they moved to this county and lived thirty-five years in Straban township, a few miles east of town. The funeral will be held on Monday morning at 9:30. Dr. T. J. Barkley will conduct the services and interment will be made in the Evergreen Cemetery. She is survived by her husband, Daniel S. Reynolds and two children: Irvin M. Reynolds of Hanover street, this place, and Mrs. Louise M. Hoffman at home, also by the following brothers and sisters: A. J. Harboldt, John A. Harboldt of Berks county, William L. Harboldt of Newburg, and Mrs. Harrison Nimmo of Perumian.

Thomas M. Mauk died this week at Central Winchester, Ohio, aged 85 years. He will be well remembered by many people in a northern end of county where he kept a furniture store and undertaking establishment at York Springs. He was a native of Mechanicsburg where his father lived. After leaving this county he was in the undertaking business in Carlisle, then at Harrisburg and only moved to Ohio several months ago. He leaves a widow and three children. He is survived by his father and brother, Charles H. Mauk.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harner, widow of the late William Harner, died at the home of her son, John Harner, near Emmitsburg on Tuesday aged about 86 years. She is survived by the following children: John Harner of near Emmitsburg; Wm. Harner of Rocky Ridge; Mrs. George Noll; Mrs. Wm. Fissel and Mrs. Oliver Luckenbaugh of Greenmount, and Mrs. Elizabeth Livingston of Sinking Springs, Pa. Mrs. Louisa Meals of this place is a sister. Funeral will be held Saturday morning with services at the house and interment at Mt. Joy Church, services by Rev. Stockslager.

Orders for Memorial Day.

Col. C. F. Gramlich, Commander of the Department of Pennsylvania Grand Army of the Republic has sent out the following order for observance of Memorial Day:

"Post Commanders will arrange for the proper observance of Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30, and will invite the Sons of Veterans, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Daughters of Veterans and other patriotic societies to join with them.

"The Forty Fifth National Encampment, held at Rochester, August 1914, ordered that as a part of the public exercises of Memorial Day, bells be tolled from 12 o'clock noon to 12:05, that flags be placed at half-mast, and that comrades remain standing with uncovered heads during this period.

"As a part of the ceremonies of Memorial Day, there will be read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and General Order No. 11, dated May 5, 1863, published by our first commander-in-chief, John A. Logan, instituting Memorial Day.

"Post Commanders will instruct their patriotic instructors to invite all teachers and superintendents of schools in their localities to arrange a patriotic program for a day during the week prior to Memorial Day and make a detail of comrades to attend these patriotic services.

"Post Commanders will arrange to have their Post attend divine service on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day, May 28, and it is recommended that the Sons of Veterans and other patriotic organizations be invited to participate in these church services.

The arrangements for the services here have been completed. Invitations were sent out to organizations to participate in the parade and favorable replies have been received from the New Oxford Sons of Veterans and Hanover P. O. S. of A. Reserves. The parade it is expected will be better than usual. There will be two bands in line, the Citizens' Band of Gettysburg and the Citizens' Band of Biglerville. William McG. Tawney of Philadelphia will be here to have charge of the parade and his assistant will be Morris Stansbury. The parade forms in Square at 1:30 P. M. and headed by the home band will contain the O. of L. A., P. O. S. of A. and other patriotic societies and civic organizations. Sons of Veterans follow the Orator and Guests in carriages. Next in line will be the Spanish-American War survivors and the Biglerville Band will lead the veterans.

At the cemetery the strewing of flowers will be done by the pupils of the schools and members of patriotic societies.

At the rostrum in National Cemetery Dr. T. C. Billheimer will act as master of ceremonies. Prayer will be offered by Rev. W. R. Glen and Prof. C. F. Sanders will read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The oration will be delivered by Hon. A. P. Gardner of Massachusetts. The ceremonies will close with the benediction by Dr. Billheimer.

The exercises in the Post Room on Sunday will be at 2 o'clock and after the reading of the war records of the comrades who have died during the year. Rev. W. R. Glen, pastor of the Memorial U. B. Church will preach the sermon.

Later Sunday afternoon the graves of veterans in the Catholic Cemetery will be strewn with flowers. There will be a procession from the church to the cemetery in which veterans and members of the various Catholic Societies will participate. There will be brief services at the Cross in the cemetery. In the evening at St. Francis Xavier Church Rev. Fr. Geale of Baltimore will deliver a special memorial sermon.

The cool spring days it is feared will have made a scarcity of flowers, so the public are asked to be as generous as they can be with their flowers and bring them to the Post Room on morning of the 30th.

St. James' Big Debt Raised.

To St. James' Lutheran congregation belongs the remarkable credit of having paid more than two-thirds of the cost of their handsome church in four years time and at the two meetings on last Sunday having raised the balance in pledges to be met in the next three years. This is no small accomplishment for the church cost more than $2000 and at the start there were no anticipations that it could be paid for in seven years' time. $15000 was raised before the work started and $2000 at the dedication. All this money having been paid, on last Sunday the remaining debt of $1500 was raised. Dr. Chutz, a former pastor, conducted the campaign for subscriptions at the morning and evening services and with a pledge of $1000 from the Mite Society and $2000 from the Sunday School and with individual subscriptions running from $500 downward at total of $12,600.50 was raised. The taking of subscriptions has continued since and when the Church Council meets to add up the grand total the church debt will have been provided for and its good people will enjoy a well deserved prosperity.

Big Mortgage.

A mortgage of $75000 given by the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company to the Commonwealth Trust Company of Harrisburg was entered for record this week in the office of Recorder C. W. Gardner. It covered 40 typewritten pages.

G. H. S. COMMENCEMENT

LARGEST CLASS EVER GRADUATED, 35 MEMBERS.

Large Audience in Walter's Theatre Witness the Interesting Graduating Exercises.

The Twenty-ninth Annual Commencement of the Gettysburg High School on Thursday evening, May 25, in Walter's Theatre was notable by the graduation of the largest class that ever went out from our schools. This fact is the best evidence of the wonderful development of our High School under the supervision of the late Prof. W. A. Burgoon and the splendid corps of teachers helping him. The school made such strides ahead as to attract our own young people and the young people from the adjoining districts. It was an attraction built upon actual worth, the giving of a school curriculum that admits to the Freshman class of many colleges, including Gettysburg College. It has been a development that has been backed by the most enthusiastic sentiment manifested for years in our town, that strong, healthy school sentiment back of the Parent-Teachers' Association, which has given support to every progressive accomplishment of our schools.

The members of the graduating class and subjects of their theses are as follows:

- "Whom Nature's Self Has Made," Nannie Rudisill.
- "The Honor System in High School," Mary Hollinger.
- "Do High School Athletics Pay?" Paul Lower.
- "The Fireless Cooker," Ruth Fisel.
- "Hat Making," Ruth Bream.
- "Education for the Farmer Boy," Harry Foth.
- "Military Education in High School," Lloyd Sharets.
- "Wall Decorations in the Home," Mary Gailbraith.
- "The School Magazine," Margaret Stewart.
- "The New in Warfare," Donald Stewart.
- "The Future Outlook," Caroline Blocher.
- "Books for the High School Library," Helen Pfeiffer.
- "What a High School Senior Should Be," Marian Stallsmith.
- "What a High School Senior Should Know," Clara Donaldson.
- "What a High School Senior Should Be Able to Do," Henry Taylor.
- "A New Necessity—Gasoline," Percy Armour.
- "Woman's Part in Preparedness," Marguerite Tipton.
- "Our National Defenses," Charles Trimmer.
- "Local Legends," Adrian Crapton.
- "Thrill in the Home Town," Glenn Sheely.
- "The Paper Famine," David Yohe.
- "The Business Boy in High School," Charles Schriver.
- "Thaddeus Stevens," Walter Martin.
- "Labor Conquers Everything," Madeline Kissingner.
- "Marconigrams," Gilbert Reen.
- "Deeds of Camp Fire Girls," Nellie Warner.
- "The Forest Trees of Our Country," Mervil Mizeil.
- "A Day in the Life of a Serf," Raymond Adams.
- "The Veteran on Memorial Day," Theodore Horner.
- "The Ancient Office of Sheriff," Robert Sheads.
- "Into Mexico," Harry Hartzell.
- "A Preparation," Mildred Stoner.
- "The Film in Education," Paul Spangler.
- "Threads of Life," Norman Burgoon.
- "What Are the Rewards?" Kathryn Deardorff.

Baccalaureate Sermon.

On Sunday evening in St. James' Lutheran Church, Rev. J. B. Baker delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the class of 35 graduates and members of the school faculty. They occupied a block of seats in the front of the auditorium. The text was from 11 Peter 1:5—"Add to your faith virtue and to your virtue knowledge and to your knowledge self-control," and among other things said were the following: "Faith is the richest quality of youth. Age halts and trembles, maturity hesitates and debates, but youth rushes in and dashes, and civilization follows in the footsteps of daring. It is the inevitable possession of youth. At the beginning of the highway that stretches out across the hills to the sun-kissed mountain top of Paradise, stands a little cottage known to all human travelers as the cottage of good wishes. Ne'er does a pilgrim reach it, but that the keeper of the lodge hands him a little pass, which if kept and presented as occasion require will take him safely past all obstacles: which if lost will abandon him to a thousand dangers. That pass is faith in ones self and faith in God. You being young have it and need not for one moment be urged to acquire it.

"What youth does need, however is the acquisition of things that will make faith worth something. Faith is steam, but steam must be controlled. An uncontrolled man is as dangerous as an uncontrolled engine. Faith alone is dangerous. Add to your faith virtue. There never was a time in the history of the race when unflinching virtue was as strongly tempted as to-day, because temptation never assured so many deductive charms as to-day. Add to your faith a Puritan virtue that will not flinch, bend or lean. Add to your virtue and knowledge self-control. You say it is the ability to resist. Yes and the ability to persist. Self-control is too often associated with the defensive conduct. There is more self-control needed to go ahead than to stand your ground. A wooden Indian can do the latter but it takes more than a wooden Indian to go ahead and keep going. That's the kind of self-control you need to add to these other things—the self-control of persistence. See an object and go after it if all the world goes the other way. Go after it if all the world is in your way."

Dr. Granville in his address delighted the audience with the announcement that Gettysburg College had decided to present to the Gettysburg High School a scholarship to be known as "The Burgoon Scholarship," which will enable the holder to secure a four years' course in the College. Dr. Granville paid a high tribute to Prof. Burgoon as an educator and his work in lifting the local schools to their present standard.

Local Marine Gets Hurry Orders.

Robert L. Jones, son of Mrs. Minnie Jones, 126 West Middle street, this place, is with the expeditionary force of U. S. Marines now headed for Santo Domingo on board the U. S. S. Tennessee, for the protection of the American Legation there during the current revolt against President Jimenes.

When insurrection breaks out anywhere to the south of Key West or north of Venezuela, the U. S. Marines are always first on the spot. Preparedness is the motto of the marine—soldier and sailor, too—all ways prepared for service in any climate—always prepared to move at a moment's notice without previous warning, and always prepared to efficiently hold the "situation" well in hand.

Young Jones enlisted in the United States Marine Corps at its Baltimore, Md., recruiting station on July 28, 1915.

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

ARENDTSTVILLE.

Memorial services will be held in Arendtsville on Saturday the 27th inst. at 1.30 P. M., under the auspices of the order of the Knights of Pythias No. 325 and order of P. O. S. of A. No. 453.

Last Friday morning when John F. Bushey went to the barn to feed his family mare he found her dead in the stall. She showed no signs of sickness in the evening previous. He thinks she had her web ruptured.

Dr. W. G. Bickell and A. J. Carbaugh had concrete walks put down at their dwelling. M. E. Funt and brother did the work.

The frequent showers of rain we had last Tuesday were very beneficial to all vegetation.

Our truck gardeners and fruit growers have quite a number of pests now that they knew nothing of twenty or thirty years ago that make them quite a lot of extra work and expense to banish them. The cabbage worm, the potato bug, the San Jose scale, and a half dozen other pests to the apple trees, the peach tree borer, and the twig on the pear tree.

Mrs. Crone and daughter of York have been here during the last week caring for Mrs. Aaron Freed who had been quite ill but at this writing is able to be up again.

Last Wednesday Isaac D. Knouse raised a new barn on the sight of the old one that was burnt last fall supposed to have caught fire from a passing traction engine. It was raised in 2 1-2 hours complete with the supporters on, contractor, J. Calvin Thomas.

Good Roads Day May 25.

First Deputy Joseph W. Hunter, Acting State Highway Commissioner, has issued a letter to the Township Supervisors urging their co-operation in making "Statewide Good Roads Day" successful. He asks the Supervisors to lay aside all other work on Thursday, May 25, and to join in their respective neighborhoods in giving their labor for the improvement of the roads. He suggests that each Supervisor take a leading part in organizing the work in his district and he extends the offer of co-operation from the Bureau of Township Highways of the State Highway Department.

Mr. Hunter has also addressed a similar letter to the Boards of Commissioners of first-class townships, urging a like co-operation and calling on them to assist in every way possible in making "Statewide Good Roads Day" a memorable event.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by D. G. Pfoutz of Chambersburg, Franklin county, Pennsylvania, for a Certificate of Public Convenience, evidencing the Commission's approval of the beginning of the exercise of the right to operate a motor vehicle or line of automobile busses between Caledonia Furnace, Franklin county, and Gettysburg, Adams county, State of Pennsylvania, for the purpose of the transportation of passengers and packages at fixed and specified rates between said points. The public hearing on which will be held in the rooms of the Commission at Harrisburg, on Monday, the fifth day of June, 1916, at 2 o'clock p. m., when and where all persons in interest may appear and be heard if they so desire.

Two Wonderful Clocks.

One of the most wonderful clocks in the world is owned by a Frenchman, Louis Desauter. It is mounted on a Louis Seize stand and has four faces. Besides marking the hours, it shows the tides at six different parts of the world, the moon, time and the solar time, the age of the moon, the movements of the planets and all eclipses. It is also a perpetual calendar. It was made by Janvier of Paris in 1789 and took eleven years to manufacture. San Diego, Cal., has a wonderful clock with twenty dials, which tell the time simultaneously in all parts of the world, also the days of the week and the date and month. It stands twenty-one feet high, and four of its dials are each four feet in diameter. It is inclosed in plate glass, so that every action can be seen, and the whole is illuminated every night. It is jeweled with tourmaline, topaz, agate and jade and required fifteen months to build. The motive power is a 200 pound weight. The cost of the clock was $3,000.—People's Home Journal.

Styles in Indian Names.

Although among the Indians there are not so many Deerlayers as there were in the days of James Fenimore Cooper, yet many of the names still possess strong individuality. This is shown by examining the names that were prominent in a recent sale of Indian lands in the Standing Rock reservation, in the Dakotas.

Here, for instance, was found Barney Two Bears, an amiable neighbor to Miss Katie Good Crow. Melinda Crowghost and Mary Yellow Fat have adjoining tracts, and there are also Mrs. Crazy Walking and Jack Elk Ghost in the same section.

It is not to be wondered at that Mary Lean Dog looks enviously from her door when Agatha Big Shield goes by with her aristocratic name, nor could any one blame Jennie Dog Man and Mary Shave Head if they fell all over themselves to assume on short notice the heroic name borne by Morris Thundershield, heir apparent to Long Step Thundershield.—New York Times.

Lines on the Palms of Hands.

It cannot be said that the lines on the palms of our hands are of any great service to us. Indeed, it is doubtful if they are of any value in themselves, outside of the possible aid they may be in helping us to determine the character of the surface of things which we grasp or touch. It is possible that they aid in some slight degree in this way. There is little doubt, however, that they are a result of the work the hands are constantly called upon to do rather than contrived for any particular service. The habitual tendency of the fingers in grasping and holding things throws the skin of the palms into creases which through frequent repetition make the lines of the palms permanent in several instances. The peculiarity of these lines or creases in various individuals as to details and length and variations is the chief basis of the so called science of palmistry.—Exchange.

A Test of Philosophy.

Slowbetter is a calm man, not easily upset. On one occasion, as his motorcar had come to a sudden stop, he crawled underneath it to see what was the matter. Somehow or other some petrol ignited. A fierce burst of flame and smoke came forth, enveloping Slowbetter. In the midst of the excitement he walked to one side with his usual slow and regular step. His face was black, his eyebrows and eyelashes were singed, and what was left of his hair and beard was a sight to behold. Some one brought a mirror, and he had a look at himself. As usual, however, he took matters philosophically. "Well," he said slowly and deliberately, "I was needing a shave and my hair cut anyway."—Exchange.

Our First Free School.

The first free school established in the United States was in the province of Massachusetts Bay in the year 1641 by order of the general colonial court. In 1641 the same authority declared that free schools should be established within every town having fifty householders under penalty of a fine of $25. This fine was doubled by a declaration made in 1671 and again doubled in 1683.

Lead Soldiers.

CURIOUS BREADS.

Some Old World Makes Serve as Certain or Wedding Rings.

Every nation has a bread that is typically its own. In one or flour is used. In another wheat or rice or cassava, and the shape varies from the disklike Scandinavian hardtack that has a hole at the center for convenience in packing them away on poles in the farmhouse to our own plump loaves that come out of the oven in the well known form.

The bread of the Balkans, curiously made in the form of chains, is sold from the arms and necks of itinerant peddlers. In tent life in Balkania the detached links are often used for fun at quills or serve a more useful purpose in suspending temporary curtains and awnings. Then when the campers run out of provisions they literally eat their curtain rings. The Japanese bamboo bread, so named from its shape, is a somewhat similar product. It is sliced and sold in strings.

One of the strangest of biscuits comes from Russia. It is known as fit the mouth biscuit and, besides being much appreciated as a tea biscuit, is quite commonly used by merchants ignorant of the three R's as a makeshift abacus in counting money—a lower string of ten serving for kopecks and an upper string of the same number representing rubles. More picturesque still is its usage as an extempore ring for marrying poor peasants with whom the gold ring is lacking.—London Telegraph.

CAUSE OF SHADOWS.

And Why They Are Darker In the Night Than In the Daytime.

Where anything through which rays of light cannot pass intercepts the light rays coming from a luminous body the light rays are turned back in the direction from which they come and the part on the other side of the object which intercepted the light goes into shade and a shadow results.

A shadow then is produced by cutting off one or more light rays. We notice shadows when the sun is bright in the daytime and at night when we walk along the streets lighted partly by street lamps.

The shadows we see in the daytime are caused by our cutting off and throwing back some of the light rays which come from the sun. These are not so dark as the shadows we see at night because the rays of light from the sun are so bright and are reflected from so many other objects to the side and in back of us.

When, however, we are walking along a dimly lighted street and come to a street lamp the shadows our bodies cause are quite black. The night shadows are darker because the source of light is less intense and the objects to the side and in back of us (if we are walking toward the light) do not reflect so much of the light rays as they do of the sun's rays in the daytime.—Philadelphia Press.

Two Little Bills.

Robert was in the habit of expecting reward for every little service. At the end of the week he made out a "bill" to his mother and carefully laid it where her eyes would fall upon it. The items were as follows:

"Mother owes to Robert.
"Five cents for running errands.
"Five cents for being good."
That evening there appeared beside Robert's plate a paper upon which was written:

"Robert owes mother, for fears of happiness, nothing; for nursing him through long illnesses, nothing; for doing good to him, nothing."
Thoroughly abashed of himself, Robert ran to mother, threw his arms around her and sobbed:

"Mother, I will do everything I can for you after this, and I'll never ask you to give me anything but just love."

What Elopement Used to Mean.

An elopement has a very definite meaning in the English language of today. It is restricted by custom to a single meaning, that relating to the disappearance of a pair of sweethearts. But an elopement in advertisements in eighteenth-century newspapers meant the absconding of a slave.

"Elope" is a venerable Scandinavian word, and Eric the Red would be much surprised to know that he would not be eloping from his ship should he jump ashore on the New England coast today. In his day "elope" meant "to leap from."—Des Moines Register.

Shrewd Father.

"So you're decided to name your boy after George Washington?" "Yes. You see, George has been dead a long time, and so many boys have been named after him who never amounted to anything that our son won't be conspicuous if he disappoints our fondest hopes and fails to become great."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

In Modern Times.

"In the old days the main element of a soldier was to know how to act under fire."

"And nowadays, in addition, he is supposed to know how to act under water in the earth and without air."—Puck.

Sociability.

"I hope you are not of those men who go home and find fault with the dinner."
"No," answered Mr. Growcher, "my wife and I eat at a restaurant where we can both find fault."—Washington Star.

A Wish.

"I wish success were a woman."
"Why?"
"Then everybody would know its secret."—Detroit Free Press.

The Velled Prophet of Sanussi.

The head of the Sanussiyah of North Africa and Arabia, the Sheik es-Sanussi, preserves the mystery of the order by himself being veiled. No one save his viziers may gaze upon his sacred person. And no sultan ever ruled his viziers with a firmer hand than does this sovereign.

Under the viziers are the m'kadem, who are the chiefs of the order in their various districts—local governors, as it were. These officials in turn are served by a staff of subordinates, who keep them informed of all things of interest to the order. Once each year the m'kadem gather in the secret city, but what transpires there we can only guess at. One thing is certain—the taxes they have collected in their districts are then turned into the general treasury.

The location of this secret city, which bears the name of Jof, can be found on the map, but no Christian lives who can tell you how the road to it runs for no Christian traveler has ever been there or at least has ever returned thence.—Christian Herald.

Computation of Time.

There is no uniform rule adhered to by all the cases as to the computation of time where the last day for the doing of an act falls on Sunday, states Willis A. Estrich in Case and Comment. The rule sustained by the weight of authority is that where an act is required to be done within a given time and the last day of that time falls on Sunday, the act may be done on the Monday following.

The rule as thus announced has been established by statute in most states, providing that if the last day on which an act is to be done falls on Sunday or a holiday, that day is to be excluded in the computation of time. Under these statutes the general rule is that when an act is to be done on a day which happens to be Sunday it may be done on the Monday following, but the rule is not without its exceptions, applicable to all questions of computation of time.

Fished and Missed.

When any young woman of Spriggs Corner attempted to coquette with Elsie Boggs or to draw a compliment from him, she was sure to have "up-hill work."

"My brother Tom has a sore throat. He's had it for nearly a week," said a damsel whom Elsie was solemnly exhorting home from the social event. "If it hadn't been for that," she added, with a slanting glance from under her lashes toward Mr. Boggs' impassive features, "I'd not have had to trouble you to see me home, Mr. Boggs."

"What we need in this town," said Mr. Boggs, "is another doctor and a sprayer. The way trifling little ailments under old Doc Jones is enough to drive folks crazy."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Mines of Nevada.

"Nevada is a Spanish word meaning 'snowy' or 'white as snow,' and the name of the state, says a bulletin of the United States geological survey, was derived from the Sierra Nevada. The state ranks sixth in size in the Union. Its length from north to south is 484 miles, its width 321 miles and its area 109,821 square miles.

The history of Nevada is chiefly the history of her mines. Since the discovery of the Comstock lode and other famous ore bodies periods of activity and prosperity have alternated with periods of depression. Each discovery of high grade ore in noteworthy quantity has been followed by rapid settlement in that locality and the establishment of one or more towns.

The Translation.

The postman handed him the letter. One glance at the envelope sent him nearly into hysterics. "Heavens!" he cried. "The first challenge I ever got!"

"Duel" was in big letters on the outside of the envelope.

"But I can't fight!"

So he hurried to the station house explained that he knew of no enemy who should demand his blood and asked for protection.

The detective force hurried out. By that time the desk sergeant had recovered.

He said it meant "Dne 1 cent."—Ultra Press.

DEATH TO THE ROOSTER.

Farmers Asked to Kill Off Roosters During "Rooster Week," May 29.

The marketing of fertile eggs, or eggs laid by hens that are running with male birds after June 1, is the cause of such an enormous loss of eggs annually, and such a source of annoyance in what might be called the four summer months, that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has set aside the week of May 29 to be known as "Rooster Week." During the week every farmer and poultry raiser is asked to kill off or pen up all the roosters and the general public can co-operate in the movement for better eggs by eating roosters and insisting on non-fertile eggs.

The superiority of the non-fertile or sterile egg is now so thoroughly recognized that at all seasons of the year it commands a premium in the big markets, in fact fancy prices for eggs can no longer be secured unless the eggs are guaranteed non-fertile. "Rooster Week" is offered as a means of bringing about a remedy for the evils and loss resulting from the old time and pernicious practice of having roosters running with the hens the year around.

Farm eggs form the vast bulk of the summer egg supply and if these eggs by any chance get heated to a temperature of 90 degrees or above and are "fertile," the germ is quickened or a living animal is started. Later conditions being unfavorable, this germ of life dies and we have a deteriorated egg or an absolutely bad egg.

It is estimated that annually there is a loss of approximately $45,000,000 worth of fertile eggs and in Pennsylvania several millions of dollars worth of eggs have to be thrown away or destroyed every summer.

The chances of farm eggs getting 90 degrees (incubating) heat are many: the outdoor temperature may be 90 degrees or above; the poultry house, indoors, may be 100 degrees and even approach 110 degrees; broody hens all too frequently spend a day or days on new laid eggs, starting incubation; the store keeper, huckster or station agent may allow full crates and whole shipments to stand in the summer sun for hours and even the consumer may carelessly leave eggs where they will have enough heat to quicken. Under such conditions the commission men yearly discover live baby chicks in the cases on arrival.

The non-fertile egg is proof against all this. It keeps better and longer and loses nothing in flavor.

Exhaustive experiments prove that hens without males lay more eggs, are better contented and tamer, are in better plumage and live longer.

Equally careful and exhaustive experiments prove that about all chicks hatched after June 1 are a loss sooner or later to the owner, and that males kept over the year are generally poor breeders as compared to strong vigorous cockerels.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in order to help the poultry industry of the State urges everyone selling market eggs, to either kill off or pen up all roosters no later than the last week in May and further urges all consumers of eggs, especially the housewives buying direct from farmers, milk men, etc., to co-operate by insisting they want non-fertile eggs and such eggs only.

Poultry Associations, Granges, and organized Retail Grocers' Associations can get further information how to co-operate in this movement and the why and wherefore of it by addressing W. Theo. Witman, the poultry expert of the Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, Pa.

Excursion to New Pen-Mar Park.

Decoration Day is the first of the summer holidays, and a great many persons always take advantage of it for a trip away from home.

At New Pen-Mar Park workmen have been busy for several days cleaning and brightening it up, until now it looks better than ever, and everyone may be assured of a pleasurable day of outing, picnicking and other enjoyable amusement.

The Western Maryland Railway will, in accordance with its usual custom, run an excursion. The schedules are most convenient and the fares are very low, as will be noted in their advertisement appearing elsewhere in this paper. Any agent will gladly give full information.

Only a little cold in the head may be the beginning of an obstinate case of Nasal Catarrh. Drive out the invader with Ely's Cream Balm applied straight to the inflamed stuffed up air-passages. Price 50c. If you prefer to use an atomizer ask for Liquid Cream Balm. It has all the good qualities of the solid form of this remedy and will rid you of catarrh or hay fever. No cocaine to breed a dreadful habit. No mercury to dry out the secretion. Price 75c, with spraying tube. All druggists, or mailed by Ely Bros., 55 Warren St., New York.

Mosquitoes.

Malaria is said to have hastened the down-fall of Rome. The mosquitoes which transmitted it were more deadly to the inhabitants of the Imperial City than their barbarian enemies. Much has also been written of similar injury to Greece in yet earlier times.

At least two diseases are carried by certain species of mosquitoes, malaria and yellow fever. All species are disagreeable pests that often make Nature's most attractive spots untenable.

Have you unwittingly permitted mosquitoes to breed about your house or grounds? Even one old tomato can half filled by the spring rains makes an ideal breeding ground. It is surprising how many hidden pools one can find around a place if you really go on a hunt. Not infrequently drain pipes become clogged and then tin roofs and gutters afford an unsuspected breeding place for thousands of mosquitoes.

Communities that suffer from these pests should co-operate to campaign effectively against them. Even the smallest adjacent pools should be filled up or ditched and drained. If these are too large to be filled they should be treated with petroleum. This floats atop the water and kills the mosquito larvae by shutting off the atmosphere. When the wind causes a movement of the water which breaks up the oil coating it must be re-oiled. Swamps can be similarly treated.

A survey should be made of all premises. Rain water barrels should be covered. Tin cans or discarded vessels on rubbish piles should be perforated, smashed flat or buried.—Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M.D., LL.D., Commissioner of Health.

Cleared His Nostril.

The following first aid measure for children who put brass buttons, gravel and other objects up into their nostrils is given by Dr. David E. Spahr in Farm and Fireside.

"A lady residing in the country called me up late at night and told me in an anxious, agonizing voice that she wanted me to come at once as her baby had a grain of corn in its nose," the doctor writes. "I told her it would not be necessary for me to come if she would do as I bid her. She said the corn was in the left nostril. I told her just to lay the child down on the bed on its back, compress the right nostril with the finger; then, as the baby cried, place her mouth over the baby's mouth and blow hard. In another moment a happy, joyful voice came ringing over the line: 'Doctor, we got the corn. It's all right and you don't need to come!'"

"Thus I lost my five dollar fee, but made a happy mother."
"This is not a very elegant or perhaps sanitary plan, but I assure you it is speedy and effectual."

Measuring Electricity.

The terms volt, ampere, ohm, watt and farad, met with in works on electricity, mean very little to most people. The volt is the unit of electrical pressure, the ampere the unit of current strength, the ohm the unit of resistance, the watt the unit of electric power, and the least of all known, farad, the unit of electrical capacity.

Current strength is determined by dividing the pressure by the strength; thus the number of amperes of current strength is equal to the number of volts divided by the number of ohms. The watt indicates the amount of electric energy being used when an ampere of current is flowing under a pressure of one volt. However, the term kilowatt, or 1,000 watts, is more generally used. The unit of electrical capacity, the farad, will contain one ampere of current at one volt pressure for one second of time. The farad is divided into a million equal parts, each part termed the microfarad, and this is the term most used in stating electrical capacity.

Japan's Curious Museum. Probably the very oldest museum in the world is that at Nara, the ancient capital of Japan. It was founded in the year 766 A. D. and all the articles therein are of an earlier date, for, although Nara has gone through all the vicissitudes of the empire, not one new article has been added to the collection. The museum is in safe and careful custody, and its doors are opened only once every year. On that day a committee goes over the collection, tabulates it and compares the list with those made previously. The 3,000 articles in the collection are of lacquer ware, decorative furniture, enamel ware, cambric-like fabrics and of other kinds and are among the very finest of their species that the world has produced. Some come from China and some from Korea, but most of them appear to have been brought from lands further afield.

THE WYOMING PLAN

OF MILITARY TRAINING IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Has the Approval of the War College of the United States.

The Wyoming plan of military training in the Public Schools, as explained in an article recently published in the Compiler, has been approved by the War College. New York State has already passed a law to provide for the plan. It is a coming plan.

In a memorandum which outlines a plan for the military training of the boys of the public schools of the country the War College Division of the General Staff of the Army points out that in the event of war the United States would need within 90 days after the declaration of hostilities an army of at least 1,000,000 men, not taking into consideration the other hundreds of thousands that would immediately be called for training.

"To prepare for this," says the War College, "requires us to use every available means of educating the young as to their future duties as citizens. If our democracy is to endure it must recognize as its primary standard of duty the obligation of the individual man and woman to sacrifice themselves for the whole community in time of need."

"The necessary elementary instruction that every young American should have in order to be prepared when the time comes to play his part in the national defense can be given in the public schools. Moreover, this can be done in such a way as to enlist parental approval, because of the manifest improvement in the scholars in physique, deportment, and obedience to authority at home as well as at school."

"The object of the prescribed course of instruction is to inculcate high ideals and correct views on the duties of the citizen to the State. The training given is along military lines, but is so conducted as to encourage initiative and individuality, to correct defects and develop natural gifts, and to teach self-control by showing the value of obedience to superior authority."

"The old method of 'breaking the will' by insisting on blind unreasonable obedience to arbitrary rules is replaced by one showing how to use the individual will in attaining the concerted effort known as 'team-work,' which is the secret of efficiency, and which is dependent upon a conscious and willing obedience to a superior directing authority. Those who learn how to obey fit themselves to direct, and by practicing self-control become imbued with the fundamental principle underlying good citizenship."

"This is not a theoretical scheme. It is a practical system carefully worked out by Lieutenant E. Z. Steever, U. S. A., and applied with marked success in the public high schools of the State of Wyoming. It has been designated the 'Wyoming Plan.'"

The War College then briefly outlines exactly what the "Wyoming Plan" is, and follows this up with its own general recommendations on the subject. At this time when the matter of military instruction in the public schools has been enacted into a law by the New York Legislature and approved by Governor Whitman, what the War College has to say, it is believed, is of especial interest to New York. This is what the War College says concerning the system now in force in Wyoming:

The Wyoming school authorities hold:

1. That good citizenship involves a willingness on the part of each able-bodied youth to make such effort and sacrifice as will prepare him for his obligations and duties as a citizen.

2. That this preparation embraces the following:

- (a) Military preparation.
- (b) Moral preparation.
- (c) Civic preparation.
- (d) Business preparation.
- (e) Educational preparation.

It is unsound to assume that any system of training its adolescent youth will remove from the nation the further responsibility of training its manhood.

Trained youth cannot take the place of trained manhood. Youth is a make imitation, but not real soldiers. A thorough preliminary military training of its adolescent youth has been recognized in primitive as well as modern civilizations as the first step in the greater training of the tribe or nation.

With the civilized as with the primitive youth the "game" is the medium of all successful training. "Competition" is to youth what "security" is to old age.

According to the Wyoming plan all cadets are organized into competition units.

Leaders take "turnabouts" choosing the members of their units, so that each unit (squad, platoon, or company) is made up of an equal number of strong, medium, and weak lads.

After final choosing-up these units are fixed and cannot be added to nor subtracted from.

All the work is done by competition units.

Sponsors are elected from the girls in the mixed school and assigned to the competition units. The sponsors are in every sense members of the cadet organization. They attend all drills, are the leaders in all social functions, and, while they do not actually drill, the sponsors are entitled to and receive such individual rewards as may be won by their units.

Medals, ribbons, and distinctive marks on the uniform are given each member of a winning unit, the sponsor, of course, included.

Each cadet organization is based on the voluntary enlistment plan. The cadet classes are held generally during and not after school hours, and credit toward graduation is awarded therefor.

Cadet tournaments are held during the school year between the different high schools, to which the public is invited, and at which are held infantry drill, wall-scaling, field firing, and camp and field and troop leadership competition "games."

From the Wyoming experience is deduced the following system of training, adapted to the adolescent American youth. Local conditions will necessarily modify the application of this system, but the general principles on which it is based will obtain in any part of the United States, and will permit the evolution of a practical course suited to local conditions.

1. Cut the school year into separate, short, intensive training periods working up through preliminary to final competition dates, with the fixed competition units.

2. Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, wall-scaling and calisthenic events; minimum of drill, maximum of body building.

3. Jan. 1 to Feb. 28, troop-leadership competitions, 12-inch Gettysburg war-game map. Include military policy of the United States.

4. Jan. 1 to Feb. 28, minimum of drill, maximum of gallery practice, group competitions.

5. March 1 to May 7, minimum of drills maximum of range practice, and field-firing competitions.

6. May 8 to June 15, minimum of drill, maximum of camp and field problems, competitive between high schools.

7. All through school year, commencing in the spring and running through the following fall and winter, take the boys into camp each week-end and harden them to the rigors of camp life. Teach them sanitation, cooking, woodcraft, simple field engineering, plains-craft, camouflage, sketching, scouting, patrolling, the service of security and information, and qualify them as guides in their own immediate surrounding territory.

8. Summer camp immediately after closing of school, 14 days.

These are the recommendations of the War College for the military training of the youth of the country:

1. That school boards throughout the United States be encouraged by the war Department to institute in their school systems, a citizenship training similar to that outlined above.

2. That the proper authority request Congress to authorize the detail of United States Army officers as instructors in public school systems.

3. That tentage and field equipment of obsolete or modern pattern be issued to school boards under bond in the same manner that Krag rifles and ammunition are now furnished.

"A nation stands or falls, succeeds or fails," the War College points out, "just in proportion to the high-mindedness, cleanliness, and manliness of each succeeding generation of men. In the Wyoming system the fundamental factor is the competition between equally balanced units. The individuals are forced by public opinion among their fellows to go into training, and this training means clean, moral youths. It is shown conclusively in the various competitions that clean men morally are the surest kind of winners. Smoking and immoral practices must go. Under the fiercest kind of competition, and a new and fascinating interest in life, the adolescent youth is better enabled to negotiate that difficult period of life * * * This civic lesson cannot be wholly lost to them in years to come, when they are called upon as citizens to elect the leaders of their city, county, State, and National Governments."

Likewise, the War College emphasizes the benefits that accrue in business life to those who have been wisely and judiciously trained under such systems as that in force in Wyoming.

Teachers' Examination.

The examinations of applicants for schools in Adams county will be held in the Gettysburg High School Assembly Room, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, as follows:

June 16, for all applicants who are not in attendance at school out of the county. June 29, for all applicants who are in attendance at school out of the county. July 11, for applicants who wish to renew their Professional Certificates by adding new subjects and those who have qualified in the subjects enumerated on a Provisional Certificate and are applying for a Professional Certificate.

The examinations will begin at 8 A. M. All applicants are requested to signify their intention to be examined by letter or postal card at an early date.

"Applicants for a Provisional Certificate will be given a thorough test in the following branches: spelling, reading, writing, arithmetic, physiology and hygiene, geography, grammar, U. S. history, Pennsylvania history, civics, elementary algebra, school management and methods of teaching."

"Candidates for Professional Certificates will please notify the Superintendent in what two additional branches they wish to be examined. Applicants for a Professional Certificate must pass a thorough examination in all branches required for a Provisional Certificate and two of the following branches: vocal music, drawing, English literature, plane geometry, general history, physical geography, elementary botany, elementary zoology, or elementary physics. The examination in Theory of Teaching for both grades of certificates will be based on "Seely's History of Education" and "Carney's Country Life and the Country School."

"Persons not prepared to pass a thorough examination in all of the required subjects should not enter the class. As an indication of what is deemed a minimum requirement for admission into the profession of teaching the following resolution was adopted by the leading educators of our Commonwealth at a recent convention:

That the minimum standard for admission to the profession of teaching includes a requirement of a three year high school course and an additional year, including professional subjects, and a review of the elementary subjects in an approved school. "Section 1262 of the School Code reads as follows: Every teacher employed to teach in the public schools of this Commonwealth must be a person of good moral character, and must be at least eighteen years of age, and submit a health certificate. Blanks for this purpose will be forwarded to the County Superintendent upon receipt of a self-addressed envelope.

"Applicants unknown to the Superintendent will be expected to present letters of recommendation. Applicants for Professional Certificates must present recommendations from the board of school directors by whom they were last employed. Applicants will please come prepared to submit a specimen of their penmanship and read a selection of their own choice. The work will be done in ink. Paper for preliminary work, pencils, ink, pens and erasers must be furnished by the applicants. Stamped envelope, fasteners and an excellent grade of paper will be furnished on day of examination. All certificates will be issued by July 15. Directors in districts in which teachers holding Provisional Certificates will be employed should not appoint this class of teachers before the certificates are issued.

"On the 11th of July, the second and last examination of this year, for the common school diploma and high school entrance will be held in the high school building, Gettysburg, at 8 A. M. Applicants who failed at the April examination will be given an opportunity to pass in the subjects in which they failed. The examinations are open to the public. School directors are especially invited to be present."

May Have to Grow Drugs in Yards.

One of the problems which is now confronting the pharmacists of the country and which will engage the attention of the members of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association at the meeting next month in Reading, is the shortage of vegetable drugs which has developed in consequence of the European War.

The shortage of dyestuffs and chemical products, concerning which there has been so much said during the past few months, bids fair to be overcome by the growing manufacture of these chemicals in this country, although the higher cost of labor and materials here will not permit a return to former prices.

With the vegetable drugs, however, the shortage cannot so easily be made up. About one half of our crude drugs come from foreign countries. Even such common drugs as dandelion, jimson weed and burdock are imported because of the lower cost of collection abroad due to lower wages.

Some drugs like asafetida, fraga-canth, senna leaves, lycopodium, nuxvomica beans and ipecac, cannot be grown in this country at all on account of the unsuitability of the climate. Many of them come from Asia, Africa and South America, and the present shortage and high prices are due principally to lack of transportation facilities and the fact that London and Hamburg have hitherto been the great crude drug markets of the world.

With some of the drugs, however, such as Indian hemp, dog grass, German chamomilla, belladonna, digitalis, aconite, gentian, licorice, aniseed, fennel and sage, in which the price changes have also been marked, cultivation is possible in this country, and even profitable at present prices. Ginseng and golden seal have been profitable drug crops in some sections of Pennsylvania and it is not unlikely that some of the drugs named above may also be profitably grown in this State; in fact, it is positively known that we can grow some of these drugs and that under cultivation they will be of much higher potency than those which have heretofore come from abroad. When the war is over, if it lasts several years, as is predicted by some people, we may not only have more and better drugs, but it is not unlikely that New York will be found to have supplanted London, Hamburg and Amsterdam and will be the greatest drug market in the world.

For several years past the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota have successfully grown experimental crops of several of these drugs. Some of the large pharmaceutical manufacturing establishments of both the east and the middle west have also conducted successful drug farms, and some individual growers are working in a small way, but it is evident that some kind of concerted effort must be made on a much larger scale if any real benefit is to result.

One hundred years ago, before the present great development of manufactured products, the pharmacist had to rely upon his own efforts for his supply of crude drugs and had to collect many of them himself. The present day pharmacist no longer has to do this but instead is educated in the use of the microscope by the aid of which he identifies the drugs, many of them reaching him in the powdered condition.

Pennsylvania already raises large crops of tobacco, which is really a drug. Why should not other drugs be also grown to advantage and profit?

PERFECT CONFIDENCE.

Gettysburg People Have Good Reason For Complete Reliance.

Do you know how—
To find relief from backache;
To correct distressing urinary ills;
To assist weak kidneys?
Your neighbors know the way—
Have used Doan's Kidney Pills;
Have proved their worth in many tests.

Here's Gettysburg testimony.
Mrs. G. Reidinger, 129 Hanover St., Gettysburg, says: "About two years ago I had trouble with my kidneys. They were very irregular in action and my back and head hurt me a great deal. One of my family had received such good results from Doan's Kidney Pills, that I got some at the People's Drug Store. They gave me great relief and at all times I speak very highly of them."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Reidinger had. Foster-McBarn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

INEZ HERRERA

A Story of Old Mexico

By F. A. MITCHEL

In the early part of the nineteenth century Don Manuel Herrera, a grandee of Spain, suddenly sold all his effects in that country and set sail for Mexico. The reason for this change of residence was that Don Manuel's daughter, Inez, a girl of fifteen, had become infatuated with Jose Alvarez, a young man whose reputation was none of the best. Alvarez, though but twenty-five years of age, had already been a leader of several uprisings against the government, and his methods indicated not only a turbulent disposition, but that he was conscienceless. By changing his residence from the old to the new world Don Manuel hoped to rid his daughter of such a suitor.

Don Manuel, on arriving in Mexico, purchased a ranch in the state of Durango, near the base of the Sierra Madre chain of mountains. On the property he built a handsome residence and became an influential citizen of the country. His wife, who had been loath to quit Spain, left her heart there. But Inez took kindly to the new country. Young as she was, she had had no taste of the formal life led by the higher classes in Spain and delighted in the freedom she was accorded in Mexico.

Inez had not been in her new home long before she was considered the best horsewoman in the state. She grew very fond of hunting and, though living in a country always more or less subject to lawlessness, did not fear to go anywhere alone. This her father permitted because he could not prevent it, though so great was her popularity among those living in the vicinity of her home that he felt she was always in a measure protected. Added to this, she was always well armed.

Among Inez's many suitors was Miguel Coral, a young man who had when he came of age inherited a hacienda near that of the Herreras. He was as much in favor with Don Manuel as Jose Alvarez had been in disfavor. Coral was the soul of honor, and Don Miguel did not hesitate to trust Inez with him anywhere. Time and absence seemed to have cured her of her infatuation for Jose. At any rate she never mentioned him and turned a not unwilling ear to Miguel. In the hunting season Inez was fond of riding up among the foothills of the mountains for game, and Miguel was often her attendant on these excursions. This was permitted not because Mexican etiquette allowed a young girl to go off with a man alone, but because Inez had a code of etiquette of her own. What she did another could not do, and much of what others did she disdained to do, for keeping girls under watch tends to make them deceitful.

When the Herreras had lived in Mexico eight years and soon after a revolution which had been unsuccessful the Sierra Madre mountains became the lair of a band of robbers, who made occasional descents upon the people of Durango, each time carrying off booty or levying contributions of money. Every ranch or hacienda that was worth plundering except that of Don Manuel Herrera was robbed. Why he was left immune while others far less promising of plunder were attacked was a mystery.

One thing, and one only, was known about the band. It was composed of persons that had been engaged in the unsuccessful recent revolution in the City of Mexico. It was reported that their leader had been one of the lieutenants of the leader of the insurgents, and some said that he was the leader himself. At any rate but few of the insurgents were captured; but, being hunted for their lives, most of them took to inaccessible points and lived by robbery.

In the autumn Inez was eager to go up into the hunting grounds. Her father objected to her going. The lair of the robbers was supposed to be in the region where she usually hunted, but they had been quiet for some time, and it was surmised that, having gained all they could get from Durango, they had gone elsewhere. Inez, who seemed to have a fancy for danger, started on horseback one morning alone to spend the day at her favorite sport. Besides her rifle she carried pistols in her holster and a knife.

Having attained considerable height, she was riding on a plateau when she met a horseman coming toward her. He was dressed in the costume of a Mexican gentleman, including the gaudy trappings. Bringing her rifle to a position which would enable her to use it readily, Inez rode on. The man drew rein a few paces from the point of meeting. She, too, stopped.

What was her astonishment to recognize Jose Alvarez. He had changed somewhat in his appearance since their separation, but not from age. That devil may care look that had fascinated her when she had scarcely bided into womanhood had become intensified. And Inez saw what she was blind to then—the spirit of evil in him.

"What are you doing here?" she asked, biting her lip to maintain her courage.

"I came here because you are here. I cannot live without you."

His voice was soft and smooth, that same voice in which he had made love to her in Spain. It caused her bosom to rise and fall more quickly than from fear.

"You have lived eight years without me."

"You were a child when we parted. I could not rely on one so young. Now you are a woman."

"As a woman I shall not act as a child."

"Then you no longer love me?"

She hesitated. She did not know whether she did or did not. Her heart was fluttering.

"You are mine. You were born to be mine. You shall be mine."

There was something in his looks, his tone of voice, when he said this that excited not exactly fear, but a realization that she had to deal with one who might make trouble for others, if not herself. She was drawing quicker breaths, but said nothing. Emboldened by her silence, he continued:

"I am going with you to your father to demand your hand."

"And suppose he refuses you?"

"You will not fail me."

Inez felt that this was an evasion. Something in the man told her that he was changed from what she had believed him to be when she was a girl. He had been sinking morally from what he had been then, and though she knew nothing of this descent she felt the difference. She was not afraid of him for herself, but for others. The image of Miguel Coral came up before her, and between him and this man she had loved so passionately she saw a great difference. She dreaded a meeting between them. She concluded to show Jose that all was over between him and her, trusting that he would leave her and those she feared for in peace.

"Jose," she said, "my love for you was that of a child. As a woman I will never be yours. I am going home Goodbye."

She said this resolutely, at the same time riding on. She did not look back. Had she done so she would have seen him start to follow her, then change his mind and turn away.

When a bad man, a reckless man, is in love there is no knowing what he will do. We constantly read in the daily journals of such men killing the women they love, then themselves. Jose Alvarez's love that had been no great passion for the child was fanned into a flame at meeting her again as a woman. He cared nothing for his life, and he was ready to take any chance to gain his ends. It was his disposition to do desperate deeds that had fascinated her as a child. He believed that he could play the same game with her as a woman.

One day Don Manuel, his wife, his daughter and others of the household were sitting on the veranda of the house when a horseman rode up to the gate, dismounted and came up the walk to the house. Inez recognized Jose Alvarez at once. The others did not recognize him till he had reached the veranda and, holding his conical hat in his hand, thus addressed Don Manuel:

"Senor, I am Jose Alvarez. When your daughter was budding into womanhood you refused her to me. Now that she is a woman and capable of deciding for herself I have come again to ask you for her."

"There is no need," said Inez, rising and confronting him, "for you to ask my father for me, for you have my own answer refusing you."

It was evident that his bold stroke was not successful. But he had not hoped for success at once. He was about to speak again when all were startled by a shot. Alvarez paused and clapped his hand to a pistol at his side. From every direction men were seen converging upon the house. When they came nearer all were seen to be carrying rifles in a position for immediate use. In advance of the others was Miguel Coral, and he seemed to be their leader.

Alvarez understood what this meant though the others with him did not. He knew that it was a matter of life and death with him or rather the kind of a death he should die, for if these men who were coming took him—and their taking him was inevitable—he would be executed for a felon, and he was thinking of taking his own life. Raising a pistol to his head, he looked a farewell to Inez. That look prevented his intended action. Don Manuel, who was now beside him and slightly in his rear, knocked the weapon from his hand.

Those coming closed in on Alvarez and seized him.

"What does it all mean?" asked Don Manuel.

"This man," replied Miguel, "recently led a revolution in the City of Mexico to depose the president and put himself in his place. The movement was a lamentable failure, but his leader escaped and with a number of his men took to the mountains above us, and it is they who have been robbing us. Special Council Meeting.

At a special meeting of the Town Council on last Friday evening the committee appointed to take up with the Highway Department the responsibility of the State for the maintenance of Baltimore and Chambersburg streets, part of the old turnpike company condemned by the State, reported that the Highway Department officials stated that the streets forming the old turnpike were upon a different basis from state route streets, which it had been recently decided would not be improved by the State. The exact status of the responsibility of the State for the old turnpike street they were assured would be fully investigated and whatever the legal responsibility of the State should be found to be would be assumed. It was urged that the streets should be permanently improved as contemplated and call upon the town for a portion of the cost as originally proposed.

The meeting had been called for the special purpose of opening bids for an addition to the Engine House to take care of the new fire apparatus that will be received at an early date. The building is to be erected in a month's time. The bid of Levi Diehl was $1053.60 and that of H. J. Weikert $1070.50. The contract was given to Mr. Diehl who has started work on excavating for the foundation of a brick one-story building to be 17 x 36 with boiler room attached. The ordinance providing for a bond issue of $10,000 was passed by a unanimous vote after extended argument. It provides for a bond issue of $10,000, $2,000 for the new fire engine, $500 for the building and $7,500 for the permanent improvements to Chambersburg and Baltimore streets provided for by ordinance of last summer and which the borough attorney advised could not be used for opening new streets. A motion to repeal ordinance of last summer was lost.

The Highway Committee was instructed not to put tarvia on first square of York street as it would make street more dangerous for travel of horses. The committee was directed to open alley on West street.

Permission was given George W. Gangwich, proprietor of the Hotel Wabash to place a banner 18 x 2 feet across Baltimore street, above trolley wires and that such a banner was unobjectionable to the neighbors.

School Board Elections.

The election of a supervising principal of the Gettysburg High School and his acceptance having been fully settled since the last meeting of the Board of School Directors, the way was clear to finish their work at the meeting Tuesday evening of this week.

Herbert B. Moyer of Cedarville, N. J., the new supervising principal, comes to this place with the highest recommendations from school boards where he has been teaching. He graduated from Bucknell University, Lewisburg, in 1897 and in 1910 was given the degree of Doctor of Philosophy by the University of Pennsylvania. He began teaching at Perkiomen Seminary, holding the chair of Latin and Mathematics in 1898. From 1898 to 1906 he was professor of science at the Norristown High School. From 1906-1907 he was principal of the A. I. duPont School, at Henry Clay, Delaware; from 1907-1914 principal of the public schools of Cape May, N. J.; 1914-1915 teacher in the Mansfield, Pennsylvania State Normal School; and at the present time is principal of the Lawrence Township Schools and located at Cedarville, N. J. Mrs. Moyer is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Sieber of this place.

The progressive advancement of the Gettysburg schools is assured. The new principal with the School Board face a work that will likely be the greatest problem the schools of the town have ever faced, a problem that cannot be quickly solved, the housing of the schools and the proper conservation of all the progressive developments of our schools.

At the meeting of the School Board held on Tuesday evening the remainder of the teachers for next year were elected and the list is now complete with the exception of the colored school, for which no teacher has yet been elected. Those elected on Tuesday evening were Prof. W. D. Reynolds, department of mathematics and commercial branches; Miss Anna Fox, domestic science; Miss Janet Myers, domestic arts, all in the High School, and Miss Reba Miller, to teach music in the grades. The tax rate was laid at 9 mills general and 1 mill building fund.

Gettysburg Light Co. Bought.

The Hanover Light, Heat and Power Company have purchased from Max Davis his property on York street, formerly a part of the Codori property, now the residence of Emory Forrest. The building will be used for purposes of the company when its lines have been extended to Gettysburg. Charters are being asked for Union township Light and Power Company, the Mt. Pleasant Township Light and Power Company and the Gettysburg Electric Company. A Straban Township Light and Power Company will also be organized. It is the purpose to supply current to persons in these districts. The current line will be made at the Conewago township line near the covered bridge on road running from McSherrystown to Bonneauville and will follow a proposed route to Gettysburg. When all the details have been completed the Hanover Company will take over the Gettysburg Light Company lines in this place.

Bond Holocaust.

New Oxford had a holocaust of its water bond this week. In 1896 a bond indebtedness had been created for the installation of the water system of that town; 146 bonds had been issued at the time and have been redeemed. Burgess Hummer, President of Council Livingston and Secretary Bowers checked up the 146 bonds and finding them all on hand they were burned while the Town Fathers rejoiced over the termination of the debt.

At the same meeting a subscription was presented by William Himes signed by a number of citizens of New Oxford agreeing to pay about $200 toward the oiling of Lincoln Way east and west and asking the borough to pay the balance, about $240. A motion carried that the oiling be done. At a later meeting objections were made to this action but the town authorities refused to reverse their action and it is expected that the Lincoln Highway through New Oxford will be put in a first class dustless condition at an early date.

Bridge Repairs.

County Commissioners Slagle, March and Keefer, with their clerk G. Allen Yohe, after counting the ballots, started on a tour of inspection of the county bridges, visiting several dozen on Wednesday and Thursday and after thoroughly inspecting they gave orders for the repairs that were needed.

On the journey they reached East Berlin and Commissioner March showed them a fine bunch of Holstein heifers and when he started on one of his irresistible talks about the beauties of the Holsteins Clerk Yohe said he just couldn't help it he had to have a pair of those heifers for his farm.

Banner Erected.

Mr. George W. Gangwich, proprietor of the Wabash Hotel, erected this week over Baltimore street the banner for which permission was given by the Town Council. It bears the words "Hotel Wabash, George W. Gangwich proprietor, Chicken Dinner 50 cents." Mr. Gangwich has gone in for improvements to the hotel he has been conducting. He has been doing papering and making many other changes in the interior of the building.

Shaving on One Side.

The shaving on one side only of the heads and beards of prisoners of war was obviously done to prevent any attempt at escape. But there have been other motives for such half shaving, which occurs at all sorts of points in history. Sometimes the act has been pure insult, as when Hannu, king of the children of Ammon, shaved off half of the beards of David's servants. In these days the victims would have mended matters by shaving the other half. But Jewish reverence for the beard forbade that, and David told the men to "tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown." Demosthenes, when he shut himself up for months in a subterranean chamber to practice oratory, shaved half of his head to cut off all temptation to go abroad.—London Chronicle.

Earrings Denote Widowhood.

That India is a land of curious customs is confirmed by the Popular Science Monthly. A widow, instead of wearing black crape, dons ponderous earrings made of solid brass. Since her widowhood is perpetual she is obliged to wear them the rest of her life. Each year another ring is added. The constantly increasing weight of metal stretches the lobe of the ear, to which it is attached, in an extraordinary manner. It is safe to say that no widow ever forgets the fact of her widowhood when wearing such a clumsy weight.

A Silent City.

No industry brings the village of Gilthorn, Holland, into touch with the world. It is almost wholly inaccessible except by water, and the inhabitants are shy and keep within doors, betraying not the slightest interest in visitors. Indeed, Gilthorn has been likened, empty and silent in its green picturesqueness, to a place visited in a dream.—Argonaut.

Progressive.

"When did you commit your first fatal extravagance?"
"When my boss referred to my wages as my 'salary.'"
"And when did you perpetrate this latest folly?"
"The day my wife called my salary my 'income.'"—Cleveland Leader.

The Feminine Pessimist.

The feminine pessimist worries because she is not as young as she once was; the optimist of the same sex rejoices that she is not so old as she will be.—Life.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Potomaine Poison.
"Potomaine is a scientific name for food poison," says a physician in Farm and Fireside, "and, although all potomaines are not dangerous to health, there is no simple test for telling the dangerous ones from the others."
Dr. Charles K. Francis, a noted chemist, gives the advice, "When doubtful about a food do not eat it." This applies especially to meat which has a peculiar odor or taste, canned goods, especially when they have been opened for some time, and other foods which do not seem just right. Taking a chance may be taking your health or life. Safety first."

PUBLIC SALE

Valuable Manufacturing Plant and Premises.

Saturday, June 10, 1916.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Charles P. Ketterer, late of the City of New York, deceased, acting under and in pursuance of a decree of the Orphans' Court of York county, will offer at public sale, on the day above mentioned at 2 o'clock p. m., on the premises, all the right, title and interest of the said Charles P. Ketterer, deceased in and to all the following described real estate and manufacturing plant, formerly known as the Ketterer Wagon Works and now occupied by the Hopkins Manufacturing Company, situated in what is known as the West End of Hanover, partly in York and partly in Adams county, Pennsylvania; the same consisting of two tracts of land, more particularly described as follows:

TRACT NO. 1.—All that tract, piece and parcel of land situate partly in Adams county, and partly in York county, State of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows: Beginning for a corner at a stake at line of lands of John Herr and the Western Maryland railroad; thence west thirty-three (33) feet to a stake; thence north fifteen (15) feet to a stake; thence east thirty-three (33) feet to a stake at lands of the Western Maryland railroad aforesaid, and thence south along the lands of said railroad fifteen (15) feet to the place of beginning. Together with any and all easement and appurtenances thereunto belonging.

TRACT NO. 2.—All that piece, parcel and lots of ground situate, lying and being partly in Conewago township, Adams county, and partly in Penn township, York county, State of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Lots Nos. nine (9) to sixteen (16) inclusive, on Block No. 23; Lots Nos. one (1) to eighteen (18) inclusive, on Block No. 24, and Lots Nos. one (1) to nine (9) inclusive, on Block No. 25, as the same has heretofore been surveyed and laid out by E. M. Kenby, C.E., and known on the plat thereof by the numbers above mentioned—bounded by lands of Western Maryland railroad, Elm avenue, the alley running north and south in Block 23, and alley running east and west in Block Nos. 23, 24, and 25. Together with any and all easements and appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Tract No. 1, above described, includes a large and copious spring of water, which is piped to Tract No. 2, and used in the operation of the plant. Tract No. 2 is improved by a three (3) story brick factory, with large elevator and shafting installed therein; there is also on Tract No. 2 a one story brick boiler and engine room with boiler and engine installed and in excellent working condition. On this tract there is also a one-story frame shop for wood-workers and frame lumber shed. The property as a whole is in excellent condition and is splendidly located for manufacturing purposes. It has a railroad siding on the Western Maryland railroad, along the entire one side.

The above property will be sold subject to a lease now held by the Hopkins Manufacturing Company, which will expire on the first day of April, 1916.

TERMS.—The terms of this sale will be 25 per cent. cash on the day of sale; the balance to be paid in three (3) months from the date of sale.

JOHN A. HOOBER, Esq., Administrator of the estate of Charles P. Ketterer, deceased.

Dry Goods Department Store

The large quantity of goods we handle gives us a buying prestige enjoyed by but few stores outside of the large cities. By anticipating our requirements months ahead we are in a position, especially in the past year, to give our customers the Utmost Protection against advancing prices about which you have heard so much for some months - - - - -

We own nearly our entire stock of goods under contracts made during 1915, or at prices ruling then. For instance, in our Rug & Carpet Department we are able to sell them at, or nearly at, the prices ruling at the mills today.

The same is true of many otherlines, notably--Silks and Wool Dress Goods, Cotton Wash Fabrics of every character and many lines of Ready to Wear Goods.

So to the Service and Dependableness of our merchandise which we offer at all times we can add now, especially, Lower Prices on almost all lines than many other stores. - - -

PALMER'S STATEMENT.

National Committeeman A. Mitchell Palmer to-day gave out the following statement:

"The result of the Primaries is, of course, very gratifying to the friends of the Wilson administration. It shows a unity of purpose by the Democrats of Pennsylvania which promises well for the future. Contests within the party, like that which has just been decided, serve to clear the political atmosphere, remove misunderstandings and make for a permanently better feeling among party men.

"I have great confidence that the minority will readily acquiesce in the expressed will of the majority, and this is the only kind of harmony worth while. My best efforts will be given to the work of perfecting the organization and welding together all elements of the party in the hope that the Democracy may come to be accepted as the only fit and clear political agency in the State for the final redemption of Pennsylvania. There is an urgent need now for such an instrument in this state, where the Republican party has demonstrated its utter lack of any patriotic devotion to the public interest. The majority party is only a struggling mass under the control of self-seeking political contractors, between whom any choice is dangerous to the public welfare. I want to appeal to all Democrats to aid in the big work which lies ahead, a work full of opportunities for public service and full of hope for a better day in Pennsylvania."

LIEBEL'S PLEDGE TO PALMER.

Michael Liebel, Jr., of Erie, who was a candidate for Democratic National Committee congratulates Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer on his election as follows:

"Your election as a member of the Democratic National Committee by the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania should end the factional quarrels in our party.

"In recognition of the expressed will of the Democracy of our state, I desire to announce my willingness to heartily co-operate with the Democratic State Committee and yourself to the end that past differences shall be forgotten; that the work of organizing the voters in every district, in every county, shall go forward and a united aggressive Democratic party wage an unceasing battle to win Pennsylvania for President Woodrow Wilson this year, elect a Democratic governor in 1918, wrest the state from the control of the Republican organization and aid in the election of capable and honest state officials in the future.

Forgetful of the grievances that have separated us in the past I pledge the support of myself and friends to the Democratic organization."

Official Primary Figures.

County Commissioners H. B. Stagle, J. H. March and E. C. Keefer with their clerk, G. Allen Yohe and two tellers, S. Miley Miller and Wm. Gilbert, began the official count of the recent primary last Friday noon and were occupied with the same until Tuesday evening, finishing up the signing on Wednesday. The first papers sent off were those for delegates to the national convention as this event will take place early part of June.

WEDDINGS.

Kemmerer-Gallagher.—Mrs. Margaret Gallagher and Andrew Kemmerer, both of York, were married by the Rev. Mark Stock in the immaculate Conception Church, New Oxford, last Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders of New Oxford. Mrs. Kemmerer is a sister of Mrs. Sanders.

Harrigan-Spriggs.—Mrs. Stella Spriggs and J. Preston Harrigan, both of Gettysburg, were married at the St. Paul's A. M. E. Zion parsonage by Rev. J. J. Turner last Friday evening. They will make their home in Gettysburg.

Michael-Little.—John C. Michael and Miss Alma O. Little were married Monday, May 22, in Hagerstown by the pastor, Rev. W. L. Lynn. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Little and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Michael of Hanover.

Myers-Laughman.—Clayton Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Myers of Brushstown, and Miss Rosie Laughman of McSherrystown, were married by Rev. C. W. Baker at the Lutheran parsonage in New Oxford last Saturday evening. They will go to housekeeping in McSherrystown.

Herman-Hankey.—Roy C. Herman and Miss Mary E. Hankey, both of Gettysburg, were married in New Chester Sunday morning by Rev. W. D. Nicoll.

It's not a woman's job, but it's part and parcel of a coal range just as much as getting up before the folks to fix the fire for breakfast. It's unnecessary, a hardship, a waste of energy, health, time and money.

For you can get a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove at your dealer's that will do everything that a coal range does, and do it better, cheaper and quicker.

A Perfection burns kerosene. And kerosene is ever so much cheaper than coal and wood. And it consumes fuel only when actually in use.

The kitchen that houses a Perfection is a cool, a pleasant place—far different from the hot, stifling coal-range kitchen. And it has every convenience—fireless cooker, a separate oven, complete control of heat, etc. Don't think of burning anything in a Perfection but Atlantic Rayolight Oil, for it is the one kerosene you can be sure of—that you can buy by name, knowing that every gallon will burn down to the last drop without a bit of smoke, without a bit of smell and without charring the wicks.

Ask for Atlantic Rayolight Oil by name, just as you get most other things the grocer sells. Then you can be sure that out of every gallon of kerosene you buy, you will get the greatest possible amount of heat.

Atlantic Rayolight Oil costs precisely the same as the questionable, unreliable kerosene.

AN ORDINANCE

Ordaining, adopting, laying out, extending and opening Fourth street in the Borough of Gettysburg, Adams county, Pa., northward from its present northern terminus.

Whereas, The petition of a majority in number and interest of the owners of property abutting on the line of the public street hereinafter described, verified by affidavit, has been presented to this Council, requesting the extending, ordaining, laying out and opening of the street hereinafter described.

The Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Gettysburg, County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania, do hereby enact and ordain:

Section 1. That the following described street within the limits of the Borough of Gettysburg, be extended, ordained, adopted, laid out and opened as a public street of said borough, namely, an extension of Water street, eastward from the present eastern limit of said Water street, over the following courses and distances, to wit:

Beginning at an iron pin at the intersection of the centre line of Water street with the eastern boundary line of Stratton street; thence by a centre line the course of which is north 84 degrees east, for a distance of (1128) eleven hundred and twenty-eight feet to a point on lands of Martin Winter within the limits of a proposed extension of Fourth street. The said proposed extension of Water street to be of the uniform width of 50 feet, that is of the width of 25 feet on either side of said centre line.

Section 2. That the proper officers of this borough do and perform all things and acts required by law to be done and performed to the end that this ordinance shall become effective and that the said street be opened and laid out and that any damages that may accrue to parties in interest be properly secured. That all damages and benefits, if any, accruing from the opening of said street shall be ascertained and paid in such manner as is provided by law.

Section 3. All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Enacted and ordained this Second day of May, 1916.

C. B. DOUGHERTY,
Pres. of Town Council.

Attest:
C. B. KITZMILLER, Sec.
May 3, 1916, the above ordinance is approved.

A young man, having served his year, might be promoted for another year's service as a commissioned officer. Thus you would have started reserve forces of officers. Then, once the telegraph instrument began clicking in Washington in case of danger both reserves and officers and men would respond, each knowing where he was to go, as every French and German officer and man knew in August, 1914. A great army would form itself automatically—a single army under a single staff. At any rate, as the most businesslike people in the world, let us get down to business.

GOOD ROADS and HOW TO GET THEM

Modern Traffic Demands Elastic Roads

Rome has a great reputation as a road builder. Her roads consisted of three courses of stone several feet in thickness. Even with cheap or even slave labor Roman roads must have cost from $50,000 to $200,000 a mile.

Though they lasted for a great many years we should not want Roman roads now-a-days at any price. They were rough and permitted only slow movement of traffic.

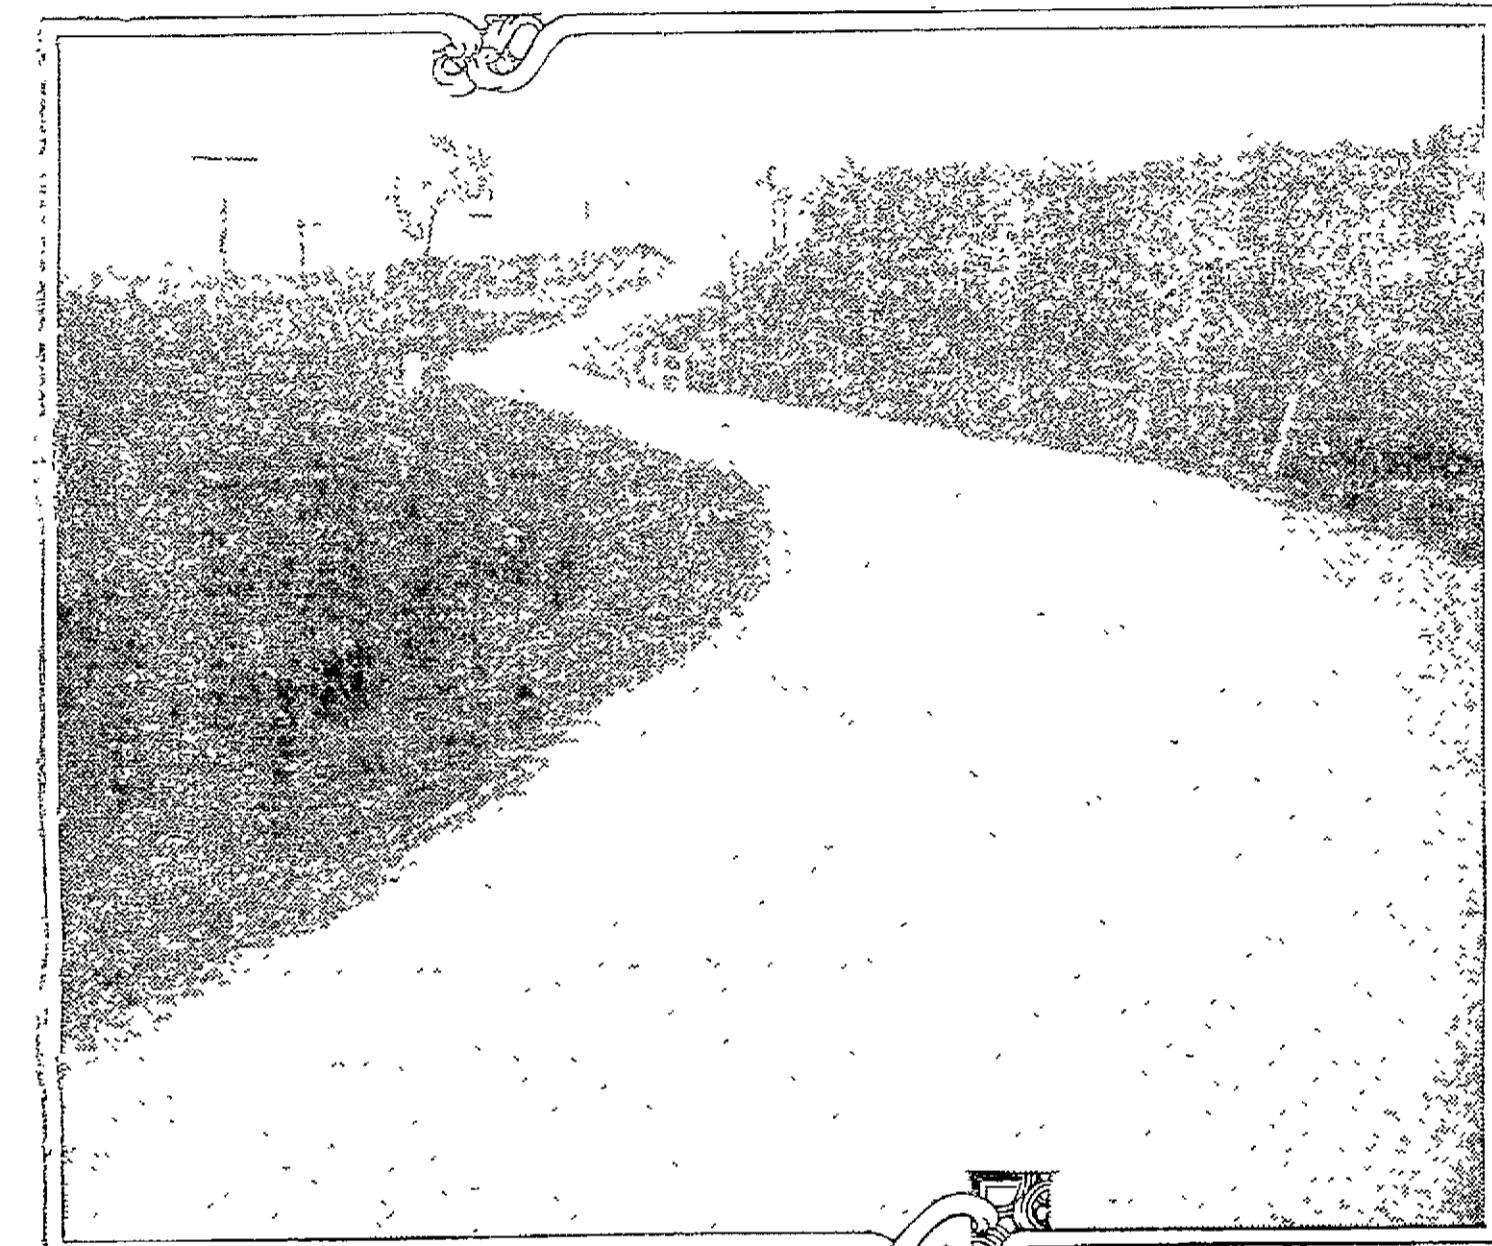

The demand now is for an elastic

A Poor Kind of Economy.

Natural asphalt costs a little more than asphalt manufactured from oil, but the difference is only a few cents per yard. The labor, stone and other construction costs are the same, and it is evidently a poor kind of economy to "save" a few cents on the cost of the asphalt when by so doing the whole investment may be wasted.

According to government authorities half the money spent in road building is thrown away on experiments and faulty construction. There is no excuse for the continuance of this waste, for there is now enough experience to guide any community in selecting a type of construction that will give good service and in choosing material that will stand the wear and tear of traffic. Starting with these, adding good drainage and good workmanship and there is no reason why good roads cannot now be had at reasonable first cost and moderate upkeep.

or malleable road surface which is adapted to horse-drawn as well as fast-moving motor traffic. This is the factor mainly responsible for the constant increase in asphalt macadam or asphaltic concrete.

In roads of this type, as in plain waterbound macadam, the stone is the wear-resisting portion of the surface. The purpose of the asphalt is to cement the stone together into a malleable mass—not to make an unyielding slab, as of cement concrete, but a road crust that will be dustless, waterproof and provide easy traction for both horse-drawn and motor vehicles.

Life of Road Depends on Asphalt.

It is easily seen that the life of the road will depend upon the life of the asphalt. If the asphalt cement loses its hold on the stone it begins to ravel out, holes develop, water stands in them, and the road is doomed.

The difference in asphalt mainly appears in the length of time they retain their full cementing power. Artificial or manufactured asphalt and the natural asphalt all analyze very much alike in the laboratory. The difference between them appears after they are put into a road or street.

The natural asphalt has been exposed to the elements for centuries and is not affected by heat, cold and water. The manufactured asphalt is for the first time exposed to Nature's destructive influences when they are put into a road and for this reason quickly lose the qualities that show under laboratory analysis.

The Rev. Mr. McGarvey, Methodist pastor at York Springs, with the Rev. H. C. Burkholder and the Rev. E. S. Cuddy, went by automobile to the Methodist general conference at Saratoga. When near Deltastown a big bull with a chain around his neck charged his head and charged the machine, striking the tender with his head and bending it. That same night they were called out of a hotel at Nicholson on account of a threatening blaze.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been to-day had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach and liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally. Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by the People's Drug Store.
